A special live anniversary performance of a Sherlock Holmes radio show is performed in a historic radio theatre in front of a live audience. In this stressful environment, existing tensions between members of the radio cast and production team (built up during the long-running series) come to a head. The off-mic drama threatens to interfere with the live broadcast - but whatever happens, once they're on the air, the show must go on...

On the Air stars local performers, and is staged in Streatham's former 'west end' theatre.

Radio script based on Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's tales of Sherlock Holmes | Play script devised by the company
